

Abstract

An illuminated bubble wand wherein the bubble wand may be illuminated by use of LED technology or chemi-luminescent technology. The illuminated bubble wand can be used to provide amusement to children, especially for outdoor play on summer evenings. The illuminated bubble wand can also facilitate location of the bubble wand when it is separated from its container. The illuminated bubble wand can also act as a convenient light source for activating the agent in a glow in the dark bubble solution.